Understanding the TOEFL Writing Section: Two Key Tasks

The TOEFL iBT writing section consists of two tasks: an Integrated Writing task and an Independent Writing task. Both require different approaches and skill sets.

1. Integrated Writing (20 minutes): This task assesses your ability to synthesize information from a reading passage and a listening lecture. You'll read a short academic passage, listen to a lecture related to the passage, and then write a response summarizing the lecture's main points and explaining how they relate to the reading.
1. Independent Writing (30 minutes): This task evaluates your ability to develop and support an opinion on a given topic. You'll be presented with a prompt, and you'll need to construct a well-organized essay expressing your perspective and providing compelling reasons to support your stance.

TOEFL Writing Sample Answers: Integrated Task

Let's examine an example of a high-scoring Integrated Writing response. Imagine the reading passage discusses the impact of tourism on local economies. The lecture then challenges some of the claims made in the reading, highlighting both positive and negative aspects.

High-Scoring Response Structure:

Paragraph 1 (Introduction): Briefly summarize the main idea of the reading passage. State the lecture's overall response to the reading. (e.g., "The reading passage argues that tourism invariably boosts local economies. However, the lecture presents a more nuanced perspective, highlighting both the benefits and drawbacks of tourism.")

Paragraph 2-3 (Main Points): Address 2-3 main points from the lecture. For each point, clearly explain the lecturer's perspective and its relationship to the reading passage. Use transition words to connect ideas smoothly (e.g., "However," "Conversely," "In contrast").

Paragraph 4 (Conclusion): Briefly summarize the main points of the lecture and reiterate the relationship between the lecture and the reading. Avoid introducing new information.

Example:

"The reading passage asserts that increased tourism invariably leads to economic growth in local communities. However, the lecture presents a more complex picture, acknowledging some positive effects while emphasizing the potential downsides. The lecturer first challenges the notion of universal economic benefit, citing instances where tourism profits mainly benefit large corporations rather than local businesses. Secondly, the lecture highlights the environmental damage caused by unchecked tourism, arguing that this long-term cost outweighs short-term economic gains. Finally, the speaker mentions the negative social impacts of tourism, such as the displacement of local residents and cultural commodification. In conclusion, while the reading acknowledges a positive correlation between tourism and economic growth, the lecture presents a more balanced view, highlighting the importance of sustainable tourism practices and responsible development."

TOEFL Writing Sample Answers: Independent Task

The Independent Writing task requires you to present a clear opinion and support it with logical reasons and relevant examples. The key is to structure your essay effectively, develop your ideas convincingly, and use precise language.

High-Scoring Response Structure:

Paragraph 1 (Introduction): State your opinion clearly and concisely. Briefly introduce the reasons you'll discuss.

Paragraph 2-4 (Body Paragraphs): Each paragraph should focus on one specific reason supporting your opinion. Provide clear examples and evidence to strengthen your argument.

Paragraph 5 (Conclusion): Restate your opinion in different words. Briefly summarize your main reasons.

Example Prompt: "Do you agree or disagree with the following statement: Technology has made people less creative."

High-Scoring Response (Agree):

"I strongly agree that technology, while offering many benefits, has inadvertently decreased human creativity. This is largely due to the readily available access to information, the prevalence of entertainment options, and the decreased need for manual problem-solving. Firstly, the internet provides immediate answers to virtually any question, reducing the need for independent thought and exploration. Instead of brainstorming solutions, individuals often rely on pre-existing information, hindering their ability to develop original ideas. Secondly, the abundance of readily available entertainment options, from streaming services to video games, often leads to passive consumption rather than active creation. People spend less time engaged in creative pursuits due to the allure of instant gratification. Finally, the automation of many tasks has reduced the need for manual problem-solving, a process that often sparks innovation and creative thinking. In conclusion, while technology offers significant advantages, its impact on creativity appears to be predominantly negative, fostering reliance on existing information and diminishing the impetus for original thought."

Discuss the concept of environmental stewardship.

V. Conclusion:

Detailed Explanation of the Essay Outline Points

I. Introduction: A strong introduction sets the tone for the entire essay. Begin with a striking statistic illustrating the urgency of environmental protection (e.g., "Deforestation is leading to the extinction of thousands of species annually.") Then, clearly state your thesis – your main argument. For example: "Environmental protection is not merely an environmental concern, but a crucial economic, social, and ethical imperative requiring immediate and concerted global action."

II. Main Chapter 1: The Economic Benefits of Environmental Protection: This section needs concrete examples. Discuss how sustainable practices, like ecotourism, can create jobs and generate revenue while preserving natural resources. Mention successful renewable energy initiatives that demonstrate economic viability alongside environmental responsibility. Use data to support your points.

III. Main Chapter 2: The Social Benefits of Environmental Protection: This section should focus on the direct impact on human lives. Explain how clean air and water translate into improved public health, reducing healthcare costs and increasing life expectancy. Connect environmental protection to social justice – for example, how environmental degradation disproportionately affects marginalized communities.

IV. Main Chapter 3: The Ethical Responsibility to Protect the Environment: This section addresses the moral dimension. Argue that we have a responsibility to future generations to leave them a healthy planet. Introduce concepts like environmental stewardship, emphasizing our role as custodians of the Earth's resources.

V. Conclusion: Reiterate your thesis, but use different wording. Summarize the key arguments from each section. End with a strong call to action, urging readers to adopt environmentally conscious behaviors or support policies aimed at environmental protection. This might include urging readers to reduce their carbon footprint, support sustainable businesses, or advocate for stronger environmental regulations.
